EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE SENTINEL.

MADISON, March 1, 1852.

This is, according to the almanac, the first day of spring. If it were not for that highly useful and entertaining annual, we should not be likely to imagine it to be spring, for it is cold, and the heaviest snow storm of the year is now (at 9 A. M.,) coming down thick and fast with its fleecy flakes. Our farmers feel very much encouraged by the appearance of the snow, as it is hoped that its protecting mantle will cover the crops of grain thro'out the State.

Our friends of the Janesville Gazette, I am sorry to see, take very much to heart, the fun perpetrated by the Assembly on the supposed assistance lent by sundry interested persons to the Attorney General, and very gravely deny that Messrs. Smith and Woodle assisted that officer in any way.—Strange to say, the earnestness of the parties in denying it, only confirms many of the members in their half-formed opinions on the subject. Such is the perversity of human nature! If our Janesville friends won't be comforted, they won't—that is all I can say, and there is no use of trying.

One singular argument, found in the Gazette, may be worth a passing notice. That paper argues that "the lake shore road has been used from the start to furnish a cover to fight the Valley road." As a reason for coming to this conclusion, the Gazette says that the friends of the former readily "fell in with the Governor in his objections to their bill." This is true—but it is also true that they immediately prepared another bill, free from the-e objections, and pressed and obtained its passage. Still further, as a reason for the Gazette's opinion concerning the motives of the lake shore company, it states that I "announced" a veto of the Valley road extension, &c. bill "two days before it went from the enrolling committee to the Governor." I have no recollection as to the dates involved, but am very certain that I did not "announce" the veto until it had made its appearance. I did, doubtless, mention the current rumor that one was expected, as I do all other important rumors that I suppose will interest our readers. If my mention of the rumor of a veto in advance of its appearance, shows that there was then a certainty of its appearance, why dont the Gazette lend full credence to the statement that Messrs. Smith, Woodle and Co., have assisted the Attorney General?

Once more—the Gazette says that the Madison and Beloit R. R. Charter, lately passed, contains the objectionable feature, relative to damages &c. and yet meets with no objection from the Governor. Our critic is mistaken in his facts—no such feature is contained in that bill.

And still once more—it will not be long before some of us will feel inclined to "carry the war into the enemy's country"—in a friendly way—and ask our Janesville friends how much they have gained by all their ebullitions of illfeeling towards Milwaukee—a feeling which has never been, and is not now, reciprocated. Had they refrained from the course which they have chosen, and taken hold of the great enterprise of crossing Wisconsin with a railroad, as they might have done, they would have had a railroad connection a year since with the lake, with Madison, and via Beloit with the Chicago road long before they can now have it. Such is the consequence of wasting their energies upon wild schemes, instead of working steadily at one practicable one.

A resolution by Dr. Hoyt to go into the election of officers of Public Works on Wednesday was laid on the table this morning. The determination of the House has been clearly expressed not to elect new officers before they get the report as to the conduct of the old ones. It is understood that the investigating Committee is nearly ready to report. Several items of the morning business had reference to the Improvement question. Two or three members spoke as to the discrepancies of the Commissioners' Report. I have already stated that no one has yet been found hardy enough to say that, he understands the Report, and can tell, from it, how the finances of the Improvement stands.

Mr. Strong introduced a resolution, which was adopted, calling upon the Board to state how much has been expended upon the Wisconsin River during the progress of the Improvement. Mr. Barber, in support of the resolution, stated that the grant by Congress or the first law provided that the work should progress both ways from the Portage, and that a certain proportion of the funds should be expended upon the Wisconsin, but, that, thus far, no good, but some injury had been done to the channel, by cutting trees in the winter and allowing them to remain in the river.

Not next in the order of business, but shortly after, Mr. Barber, from the Judiciary Committee, reported upon Dr. Park's original bill, providing means for meeting the liabilities of the state and for carrying on the work. The Report is not lengthy, but is an able exposition of the manner in which the provisions of the grant by Congress, and the first state law have been violated by the different Commissioners, involving the state in debt, and the whole affair in almost inextricable confusion. It Lists at some proposition to get clear of the difficulties and begin anew. It objects to pledging the Improvement for its debts and suggests whether, the Fox and Wisconsin Rivers and the portages being common highways by the Ordinance of '87 there exists any right to impose restrictions upon their use; and it opposes the project of mixing the price of the lands.

The question lies in a nut-shell; we have gone thus far contrary to law in the matter—shall we still keep on in that course, or shall we turn over a new leaf, and do right hereafter? Whatever be the result of the enquiry and investigation, I fear that it will take much time to arrive at it.

Three resolutions introduced some time since by Mr. Peck came up this morning, and a discussion arose upon the first of them, which was an instruction to the special committee to report a bill repealing all license laws. (The other two resolutions propose a bill allowing a vote of the people, for or against the Maine Liquor Law, and a memorial to Congress to declare the trade in liquors contraband.)

Several members spoke upon the resolution referred to. Mr. Barber favored the present law as on a good one, and as providing a means by which the traders in ardent spirits could be compelled to pay their portion of taxation. He stated that he would be in favor of the Maine law if he had any idea that the people would sustain it. Mr. Shafter proposed a substitute which would reduce the price of licenses and the penalties against infraction of the law. He believed that the population of the State was not of so homogeneous a character as to be ready to sustain a law like the Maine law; nor even the present law. He detailed the progress of public sentiment in Vermont upon the subject, and thought that the progress in this State must likewise be gradual. The House adjourned pending the debate.

This morning, 792 more names were sent in for the Maine Law, and 155 against.

The Bank law was the special order for the afternoon, and progress was made upon it in committee of the whole.

An amendment was adopted, requiring the Comptroller to give the same bonds as the Treasurer. Another was adopted making his salary $2000, to be paid out of the Treasury—another provision, later in the bill, not yet acted upon, providing that the Banks shall be taxed to pay the salary. At this point, Mr. Sholes moved a substitute making the Secretary of State the Comptroller ex-officio. After considerable discussion the proposition was lost. Another proposition by Mr. Sholes to make the Comptroller elective by the people, was carried.

Very little progress was made in Committee the first section not being finished, but the fever of amendments and furor of speeches will soon subside. W. H. W.

P. S. 7 P. M.—The snow storm still continues with no prospect of abating.

Another Destructive Fire.

Our City was again visited with a destructive fire, yesterday morning. It was first discovered shortly before 3 o'clock A. M., in the three story brick store on East Water Street occupied by T. LITTELL Esq., and had probably been burning some time. The alarm was promptly given, but the fatigue and excitement of election had disposed almost everybody to sleep very soundly, and the startling summons fell for once upon comparatively dull ears. Very few of our citizens and not more than half of our Firemen heard, or heeded the alarm, and it was not without very great exertion that the Engines could be dragged thro' the deep snow and got to work upon the fire. The flames, meanwhile, spread rapidly thro' the building in which they first broke out, an explosion of gunpowder blowing open the doors and giving wings to the conflagration. Before it could be checked, Mr. LITTELL'S store was pretty thoroughly gutted, and the upper stories of the one adjoining, occupied by Storm Brothers, suffered serious damage. The sun was up before the Firemen were released from their arduous labors. Refreshments were kindly and liberally provided for them by the Messrs. STORM, MORRIS LOTZ and others.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The store was closed, shortly after 10 P. M., on Tuesday night, and the stove was then cold. Like the previous fire in Maynard's store, the only way of accounting for it is by the supposition that it was the work of an incendiary. The losses and insurances are as follows:

STORM & BROTHER, No 111. Building owned by Dr. JAS. JOHNSON, damaged about $1,500; insured for $2500 in the Ætna, of Hartford, Conn. Goods insured for $3000 in the Howard, which about covers the loss.

THOMPSON LITTELL, No. 109. Building owned by Mrs. MURPHY. Insured for $2000 in the Hartford Protection, which covers the loss. Loss on goods about $10,000; insured for $8,000, viz: $3000 in the Northwestern, of Oswego, N Y., and $5000 in the Milwaukee Merchants' Mutual.

J. ROONEY, Auction store, No. 107. Loss on Goods, $400; insurance of $1900 upon building furniture, store, &c.

The upper story of the building was occupied by the Milwaukee City Guards, and their guns and equipage which were stored there, were destroyed.

UNFORTUNATE FOR "THE MASSES."—The Wisconsin of Tuesday afternoon grinds out the following melancholy prelude to yesterday's announcement of the People's triumph:

Col. CROCKER'S partisans are spending money very liberally, and they thus hope to ensure his election, but we place reliance on the virtue and integrity of the masses who have more than once foiled those who would thus debase the elective Franchise.

What "the masses" will do, now that their especial organ, the Wisconsin, has lost its "reliance" on their "virtue and integrity," we are quite unable to conjecture. We hope, however, that they will not be driven into any very desperate act in consequence.

A GREAT PASSAGE.—The splendid New York packet ship Washington, has just made the quickest passage from that port to Liverpool, on record. She sailed from N. Y. at seven o'clock on the morning of the 20th January, and at two on the afternoon of the 3rd Feb. she took a pilot off Point Lynas; thus making the passage in thirteen days and nineteen hours, or allowing further five hours difference in time, thirteen days and fourteen hours. This is nearly equal to the average winter passages of the steamers.

☞ The Sheboygan Mercury, after a fortnight's suspension to fix up things, comes to us again, improved in looks as well as in fact, and promising new claims to the "aid and comfort" of its patrons and the public generally. The Mercury is the oldest paper published in that neighborhood; circulates widely in Sheboygan and the adjoining countries, and offers an excellent advertising medium for such of our Merchants and Business men as may wish to let the people in that quarter know what wares they have to sell.

☞ Col. CROCKER'S large majority is due to the indomitable energy of himself and his friends, who worked in and out of season. The result is a fair illustration of what labor will accomplish.—Wisconsin of yesterday.

This is "a sober second thought." On election day the Wisconsin insisted that it was money which made the Mayor go.

REMOVAL.—Messrs. MCGREGOR & TENNEY have removed their quarters to Nos. 5 and 6, Phœnix Buildings, the rear rooms on the second floor. There are no handsomer, or more convenient offices in town, and, "we may add," the occupants are worthy of the offices.

FIRE AT GREEN BAY.—We learn that the store of W. H. CADY, at Green Bay, was destroyed by fire, Saturday night, with most of its contents.—There was no insurance of $4500 on the property.

Going to California.

"All the world" seems bent on a trip to the Gold Region. If there were steamship accommodation on the Panama and Nicaragua lines for taking Fifty Thousand passengers through in the course of the next two months, we believe it would all be eagerly taken up. An immense army will this year cross the Plains and the Sierra; and, though many will perish or stop on the way, we cannot estimate the emigrants during 1852 to California at less than One Hundred Thousand; and, should means of transportation be provided, and the news from the Pacific continue cheering, it may even exceed that number.

We believe in California, and always did. Our judgment was early made up and proclaimed that its product of Gold would exceed that of any other country known to history. We believe it has in the main a good climate and an abundance of fruitful soil, though it has probably more that is rugged and impracticable. And we do not doubt that, for those who go well prepared and provided, there are as good chances in California now as there ever were. Yet the rage of the fever at present is rather appalling. What are all these thousand to do in California? Gold-washing must, in the nature of things, grow less and less productive; there will be rich "pockets" and "holes" for years to come yet; but a good deal of the ground has been gone over, and fifty thousand diggers in 1852 can hardly hope to average as much of the shining sand as five thousand did in 1849. Many will do well, but washing must certainly prove less profitable and more precarious.—Quartz Mining, or rock-crushing, seems to be generally doing very well; but there will hardly be one set of adequate machinery in the Gold Region this summer to every thousand gold-seekers.—How are all the rest to be employed?

We do not doubt the luck of a strong, willing, two-handed man, who knows how to chop, team, plow, dig, blast, &c. and can do these or four of them well. A fortunate blacksmith, carpenter or builder, who can turn his hand readily to something else where his own trade happens to be glutted, will be apt to get along.—But we fear of men setting out for California who have never been able to hold their own here, and who have very little rough and ready capacity for manual labor. Most of these, we apprehend, will rue the day they left their Atlantic homes. Even dainty women are trying to get across, with the idea that there must be chances for them to make fortunes on the Sacramento. So there may be; but for any but the stoutest sort of rugged workers, who can cook, wash, make beds, mend cloth, and don't mind sleeping cards exposed to a burning sun or a pouring rain—for the miners' houses in the diggings are often very primitive—we fear California will prove anything but an Eden.

Friends all over the Country! be careful! Remember that "All is not gold that glitters." If you don't know how to make a good living here, we fear you will not improve your condition by crossing the continent.

Do not go empty-handed: do not trust blindly to luck; and do not fancy yourselves ruined if obliged to stay on this side. There are very good chances even here for those who know how and are willin to work. Try one!—N. Y Tribune.

BOY LOST.—Left his Father's residence near Mapleton, Waukesha Co., on the 13th inst., a lad 13 years of age, by the name of Thomas Grier: when last seen was in Oconomowoc: had on at the time a green frock and pants, a blue flannel shirt and cloth cap. His dark hair, and consideremby freckled. Any one giving information respecting the said youth will confer a great favor on his anxious parents.

Feb. 25, 1852. PATRICK GRIER.
Mapleton, Waukesha Co.

COUNTY TREASURER.—We learn that the dispute over the office of Treasurer of this County which has for some time been pending before Judge Hubbell, was decided on the 23d ult., in favor of Peter C. Jones, and against H. N. Davis the present incumbent. Orders for Books and funds were accordingly placed in Sheriff Cesny's hands on the 23d ult., to be served, but up to the present time he has been unable to find Mr Davis. J. L. Gallagher, Esq. was counsel for Mr. Jones, and J. E. Arnold for Mr. Davis.—Waukesha Dem.

LADIES NORMAL INSTITUTE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

It seems by an article in your last mornings paper, that the ladies in this city, have taken this subject in hand We now have faith in success.

It is nearly two years since the organization and plan of this Institution, for the education of young ladies, was presented for the consideration of this community, by the celebrated Miss Beecher. She, with her associate ladies of the East, organized the school with a Board of most competent teachers, with a present donation of $1000 in a Library and Philosophical Apparatus, with the encouragement of $25000 more for the support of three Professorships, on condition that the citizens of Milwaukee should erect suitable buildings for the accommodation of the Institution.

We gave promise to the enterprise. Miss Beacher forwarded to us the $1000 immediately, and has since seemed, as understood, one of the professorships of $5000. This Board of teachers, than whom, none more competent, faithful or patient, can be found East or West, have now worked and sacrificed nearly two years of their earlier lives, sustained only by hope that suitable buildings would yet be provided for them, agreeably to our encouragement. During this time they have collected, on an average, from 100 to 120 Young Ladies and Misses around the teachers Board, who have all been crowded into the different small rooms of a private dwelling house, filling it full from its damp basement cellar to its gable roof. A tenement, although intended for a residence, is so destitute of back yards and so crowded upon the streets, as to be really unfit for the residence of a family of six persons. Thus we have met, or rather neglected to meet the munificent proffer of Miss Beacher. Thus in our busy and fearful excitement for wealth and fashion, have we neglected to provide for, and sustain this Board of teachers until heart and hope faileth them.

A very recent letter from Miss Beecher to one of the Board of teachers, very properly enquires for our decision and action upon the subject. Shall the Institution be permanently located in this city, or shall it seek out a clime more congenial to its great objects? Shall we by mere apathy and indifference sustain so great a loss? Shall we, as a city, incur so great a disgrace? Can we with safety any longer withhold our aid and our influence from the great objects of this Institution?

We live in 1852, in this City of Milwaukee, with its great future before us. We have, most of us, selected it as our homes and abiding place, with its adjoining Cemeteries as our final resting place. Our children, we expect, are, we hope to leave behind us. But how shall we leave them? and what shall be their inheritance? Shall it consist in wealth—in mercantile houses—in splendid blocks and residences? The elements dissolve them in an hour in mid-day!

We are now 23,000 strong. We have done and are still doing much to adorn and beautify the dales and bluffs of this Switzerland City of the West. We build public streets and walks; we open thoroughfares with the country; we build splendid residences, garnish and furnish them with an unsparing hand; we erect massive and costly blocks for our mercantile interest; halls for music, concerts, levees, dancing parties, and theatres, many of which are objects of fancy, passion, or pride, evanescent in their nature, and are both destroyed and destroying in their usage.

But I stop not to question the propriety of all this. I put the other more important question, what are we doing for the intellectual wants of our city—for mind—for Intellect—that part of man that dieth not, but is eternal, and liveth ever for good or evil? What shall be the character of the increasing multitude of youth of our city, who are soon to direct and represent public opinion?—What a crisis this in which we live, in which this city is forming her habits!

Twenty years hence! what shall be its character? Who shall answer? Who shall assume the responsibilities—or rather, what man or woman shall attempt to avoid responsibilities? What tremendous consequences in the future, now hang upon the influence of the leading minds of this city? Shall we, like France, give ourselves up wholly to the fashions and amusements of the day, and leave the populace ignorant, and public opinion to be directed by an usurper?

This should not—cannot—must not be! Government has done much—very much, for our State, in aid of moral and intellectual culture—what are we, as a city, doing?

Is it necessary to argue the vast importance of Female Education upon the rising masses, upon youth during the first ten years of their tutelage? Shall we compare woman's influence with man's in the early training, and education of youth? Shall we compare her influence upon youth, prior to ten years of age, to all the restraining influences of penal codes upon youth, after ten years of age? Shall we compare her influence even with that of the minister of the gospel? In all these comparisons where lies the greater power for good or evil? With woman—reason, philosophy and experience all answer, woman. Let woman then be educated, and prepared for her proper, and legitimate influence upon the destinies of the world—I now speak of woman, not merely a lady—of educated woman—that is the term—the term Lady, may mean something less.

It seems now, after two years delay, that the women of this city have taken the subject in hand by the appointment of a Committee to canvass the city and enforce their claims. The question to be presented, is, "shall the necessary buildings be provided, or the enterprise wholly fail, and the liberal endowments proffered by Miss BEECHER and her associates be neglected by us, for the benefit of other localities?"

Go forward, women, with this great object—Canvass the whole city; call upon every respectable office, counting room and capitalist; call upon the officials from the highest to the lowest. Do not neglect the new Mayor—liberal, generous and blushing with his recent honors—nor the late Mayor who retires with honor. All will tell you "its hard times, and no money." never mind—Insist upon something from all and say to them that it will be "harder" yet if they neglect the Ladies.

QUIS LIBET.

Imports of Iron under the British Tariff.

A stranger to our country, our institutions and our resources, after examing the fiscal returns embraced in the Annual Report of the Register of the Treasury at Washington, would naturally conclude that the United States were as devoid of minerals, as they are of abundant markets in Europe for their surplus breadstuffs and provisions. The inference is not uncommon in many parts of the world, that in this country we are incompetent to fabricate; and that without the spindles of England and the looms of the Continent, we should be deprived of many textile luxuries we enjoy by reference to others. We are not about to discuss these matters at present, but we desire to call attention to the subjoined statement, which exhibits the character, quantities, and values of iron imported into the United States during the past year. Of the thirty millions of specie exported during the same period, a large portion was sent abroad in payment of this article in its manufactured state, while our forges, and furnaces, and rolling mills were standing idle:—

A GOOD RULE.

"It is well to walk with a cheerful bear:
Whatever our fortunes call
With a friendly glance and an open hand
And a gentle word to all

Since life is a thorny and difficult path,
Where toil is the portion of man,
We all should endeavor, while passing along,
To make it as smooth as we can.

From the German of Claudius.

THE INNOCENT MAID.

My mother, she tells me—
"Nature has given thee
Lips to speak with, my daughter, thy own:
And so thou must use them for speaking alone."
But who are they red then?
White lips would answer for speaking as well;
And why has she said, then—
"Only for speaking?" Of who can tell
A poor little innocent girl like me,
For what but to speak with, can my mouth be?

CIRCUIT COURT.

Trial of Wm. Ratcliffe for the Murder of David Ross.

BEFORE JUDGE HURBELL.

District Attorney Butler and E. G. Ryan for the State.

J. E. Arnold and A. D. Smith for Prisoner.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3.

J. R. Treat, next witness for prosecution, testified as follows: doesn't know prisoner; couldn't swear that he has ever seen him: witness looked into his premises once but couldn't say that he saw him: has seen David Ross once or twice but never spoke to him: heard of the murder morning after: saw Mr. Ross between 6 or 7 in the afternoon of Sunday; first saw two gentlemen opposite the United States Hotel on Huron street; they were going towards the lake; was informed one of them was Ross; can't say who the other man was; wasn't as large as witness. They met a man with a white hat on coming from towards the lake near the livery stable; they on the south side of the street and the other man on the north side. They accosted each other; the man with the white hat passed across the street and went with them towards the lake.

Cross Examination. Was standing on the corner of United States Hotel; thinks it wasn't far from sundown; has tea at six and had had supper; had stood on corner a few minutes. The man with the white hat on turned out to be Mr. Russell; asked Mr. Button who Ross was; saw Russell in Grand Jury room afterwards.

Mr. Russell recalled by prosecution, testified: On the 4th May last when witness met Radcliff and Ross on Huron street had on a white hat; witness was on the United States side of street; was the one that crossed the street.

Francis Curran, next witness for prosecution, testified; don't know prisoner; knew Ross: heard of the murder; saw him on the day of his death; it was on Reed street, 5th Ward, in front of witness's house; he was walking this way in the street, and a man came along and took him by the arm. Ross was alone when witness first saw him; didn't see Wigler then; witness's house is the Mississippi house; this was near 6 o'clock.

Cross Examination. Wigler didn't board with witness at the time; he used to come and take a meal once in a while; he never boarded regularly with him; Ross did; don't recollect seeing Wigler at all on that Sunday: heard of murder about 2 o'clock in the night; Conover and another man informed him; first saw Ross in front of house; he was alone then and walking on his way; the running of the man from the sidewalk to Ross attracted witness's attention: heard nothing he said. Mississippi house is about the middle of the block on south side of alley. The man was not very tall: was middling thick and chunky; Morgan street is south from Mississippi house; house is on east side of Reed st. Wigler's store is south from house on same side; Ross was walking on west side of the street and the man came from the west side sidewalk; didn't notice whether the man came from towards town or not; don't know who the man was.

Direct Examination resumed. Wigler eats at his house sometimes once a day and sometimes not at all; paid by the meal; had his own home at that time over the store; don't recollect anything of the dress of man who spoke to Ross; has lived on Point over three years; didn't see any man with Ross before this.

Lewis Grant, next witness for prosecution, testified as follows: Lived in May last on Walker's Point; knows prisoner by sight; has seen David Ross; saw him after murder; the night of murder saw prisoner in the afternoon; came into Flemings: it was pretty early in afternoon before tea: he asked if Ross had been in there that day, can't tell what reply he got; Mrs. Fleming answered him; he started and went out and he said "I shall come once more. I am right enough;" didn't notice which way he went; afterwards saw him in about 2 hours; he was in Mississippi house; he came from the sidewalk up to Mr. Ross; there was a man with Ross at the time; didn't know who he was; didn't notice where they went.

Cross Examination.—Can't fix any time when defendant was at Mrs. Flemings; there were several members of the family present; noticed no person packing up boxes or trunks at the time; had been there 3-4ths of an hour; defendant stayed 7 or 8 minutes; he had on a black dress coat, satin vest, dark pantaloons, and hat; didn't notice his boots; made the remark just as he got out of his chair to go away; is positive he made use of the words—"I shall come once more—I am right enough:" Mrs. Fleming was in the same room; he spoke in an ordinary tone of voice; spoke the words very carelessly; thought they must have been acquainted; didn't know what he meant; heard no remark about the expression after he left; didn't hear Mrs. Fleming sworn; has talked with Mrs. Fleming about the words; when witness talked with her about it she pronounced the same words witness has testified to; after Radcliff left witness went home, and stayed home till morning; was going after a pail of water when I saw Ross at Mississippi House; had not then been at supper: it was just getting dark after we got through tea; it was an hour from time witness went for water, to tea; Ross was going South; he and the man with him were standing still when defendant came up to them when I first saw them they were standing still; was about 200 feet from them.

Hermann Upmann—lived in May last at Market Square; kept a Saloon there; has seen prisoner; knew David Ross; recollect hearing of murder; saw Ross two or three days before at Saloon; Radcliff was with him; didn't see them there together but once during the week; first saw Ross at Saloon 4 or 5 weeks before murder; he came alone.

Cross Examination.—Came in almost every day to take a glass of beer; went over to Kilbournetown frequently, and in passing, stopped in; it was about noon when Ross and defendant were in together; stayed about 5 minutes and took a glass of beer.

William Evans, next witness for prosecution, testified as follows: Know prisoner, knew David Ross, and heard of his death; during the week before death, had seen prisoner and Ross together; saw them twice once at witness' house on outer street, and once on the opposite side from tavern; this was on Saturday; tavern is the old Commercial Hotel; didn't see prisoner alone on Saturday: Ross stayed at Radcliff's Friday night before death, so Radcliff told witness: Ross had spoken with witness about staying with him that night; had engaged a bed-room; prisoner came next morning and said that Ross stayed with him; he inquired for Ross; witness told him he didn't know where he was; he engaged his bed but didn't sleep there; recollect nothing more.

Cross Examination.—For 3 or 4 weeks before murder; Ross had stayed with witness once all night; had seen Ross often; didn't see him on Sunday; don't know David Kinnmon; know Douglass; have seen him and Ross together at witness' house; Radcliff didn't say at what time Ross left his house on Saturday morning.

Sarah Maria Golding, next testified as follows: Kept a Saloon in May last on East Water street: knew the prisoner Radcliff; know David Ross, and heard of his death; within a week before death had seen prisoner at her Saloon alone; on Sunday of murder he inquired for Ross: it was between 2 and 3 o'clock: didn't see him again after that day; within two weeks before, Ross and he were at Saloon together often; had known both of them for 6 or 7 months; Radcliff never inquired for Ross on any other day than the Sunday of murder; he was dressed up Sunday-like.

Cross Examination.—Saw them at Saloon together on Saturday before death, between 1 and 2 o'clock. They came in to drink; generally came in for that purpose.

Herman Cordes, next witness, testified as follows: Know David Ross; recollects his death; went to spot where he was killed: didn't hear of his death until he went there; was not there when he was killed; was passing from Mr. Resdler's, his father-in-law; was there 15 minutes; there were two ladies and a man there; saw Ross in the street; it was near Elizabeth st. on a corner; went down towards him, and when came to Sanders' there was a light in the house; there were several persons there; Mr. Bear, Mr. Sanders, Mr. Siesinecoop and Mr. Hansmaker; there were more there, but don't remember who they were; couldn't tell what time it was when got to Sanders'; told folks there of murder; can't tell what time it was when got to where body lay; from the time first got to body to the time reached Sanders' it was about 20 minutes; saw Ross in the morning of that day; saw him on Reed st. near Rochester House; it was 9 or 10 o'clock, before dinner: he was walking on sidewalk, from south to north: is sure it was on Sunday; don't recollect that there was any body with him.

Cross examined.—Couldn't tell what time he left father-in-law's; it was four blocks from there to body; thinks there were two ladies and a man there: they had a lantern; they were not doing any thing: the ladies knew witness, but he did not know who any of them were; they were all Germans; thinks Ross was dead; folks told him it was Weigler's partner: he was lying on his back; men came while witness remained there; don't remember who they were; thinks Parsons was among them; was there 7 or 8 minutes before they came; they then looked for his hat: for spots of blood: were not hunting for hat when witness left: they were talking about taking him to some house when he left: thinks it was 10 o'clock when witness came to Sanders; can't swear as to the time: don't know where Ross went to on Sunday morning.

Dr. Hatchard recalled by prosecution: testified as follows: Saw Ross and Radcliff on Huron st. on Sunday of murder opposite Witness's office: thinks he saw them twice; saw Radcliff and Ross passing office going east and on the return saw them and a third party together: have heard since that it was the witness from Canada, Mr. Russell. They turned to the right and went north.

John White recalled by prosecution, testified: The vest which witness brought from Radcliff's house at the time of arrest didn't go out of his possession until it went into Grand Jury room; the spots in the meantime underwent no change; the boots also remained in witness's possession, and the spot on it underwent no change; can't recollect how many coats were found at house the morning of prisoner's arrest: don't recollect whether any blue frock coat with velvet collar was found or not.

Cross Examination. Witness meant to be understood that nothing was added to or taken from the spots. Witness swore before that he carried the vest to Dr. Garner but can not say but that Mr Webb did; know that vest never left his sight from first to last; witness thinks the vest was taken there on Sunday; first observed the spots when found it at the time of arrest; is neither negative or positive as to whether a black frock coat was found; our feelings were so much wrought up at the time that it would be impossible to determine.

Curtis Farman, next sworn, testified.—Knew Ross; knows prisoner: heard of Ross' death; on Sunday of death saw prisoner and Ross together: it was half past 6 when first saw them: they were in the Badger Saloon: thinks he was there when they came in: doesn't know from which direction they came: they didn't remain long; saw them leave Saloon; don't know which way they went; after that time saw them together again: it was after dark some time; couldn't say how long it was from time when first saw them; should think it was more than an hour: saw them crossing from Weigler's store to the opposite corner, southwest; they then went south: witness was going to church; the sermon had commenced and had been got along with some when he got there; went to Methodist church on Reed street; from the place where he saw Radcliff and Ross to church is four blocks: didn't stop after met them on the way to church; don't recollect at what time the services commenced at that church at that season of the year.

Cross Examination.—When witness saw them in the evening they were walking on the east side of Reed street: they were walking slow and witness overtook them: passed close to them; they were crossing the street when witness passed them; witness got on to side-walk first; remembers seeing them, and for that reason must have looked around; witness turned the right hand corner by the Rochester House, towards the Niagara; didn't look around after I turned the corner: they were walking arm in arm; couldn't say whether they were talking or not; after witness got to the Niagara House he went South, to church; didn't see them again.

(At this stage a crack of seats occurred in back part of Court Room, which made the eyes of the audience look wild. The venerable edifice, however, didn't totter.)

It was rather cloudy on the evening of murder; does'nt recollect seeing a moon; don't remember whether went from church directly home or not; can't say as he has got a good memory; the last person witness saw to speak to before going to church, was Mr. Cavanagh; it was after witness started: think he hadn't had his tea when he went to Bently' Saloon; his usual time for taking tea was from 6 to 6½; Cavanagh was there and asked witness who Ross and defendant were; witness went from there to Brants' house; don't know whether he took supper there or not; went from there to witness' fathers': don't remember whether he took tea or not.

(The cross examination of this witness was so rapid that it was impossible for reporter to follow him. It was directed principally to the testing of witness' recollection and credibility.)

Direct Examination resumed. Conversed with Mr. Warren about Radcliff and Ross' coming into Mr. Bently's and drinking; don't recollect any thing else: don't remember saying to him that Radcliff tried to induce Ross to drink.

Hannah A. Smith, next witness, testified: Knew Ross; recollect time of his death: know the prisoner; resided in the 5th Ward, at Mr. Raymond's, on Lake street; on Sunday, day of his death, saw Ross about 15 minutes past 9 o'clock in the evening; met him on the corner of Lake and River streets, near Saurdice's grocery; there were two gentlemen with him; couldn't tell who they were, except that she could swear to their size; has seen both of them since that time; witness thinks Mr. Radcliff was one of the gentlemen; saw him with Sheriff White in the jail yard; thinks she saw the other one in the grand jury room. Mr. Treat, Elder Thomson, Deacon Byron, and Mr. Webb, were present when witness recognized the man in the grand jury room; Sheriff Page and Mr. Butler were present when witness recognized prisoner in the jail yard: witness was going home from church when she saw them: the church was at Walker's brick block; there were three ladies with her, the Misses McHose; they left witness on north corner of Lake and River sts.; witness crossed over on the south corner, and went west on Lake street; saw them before she got across the cross-walk; they were coming west and she was going south, when they met; we met first right opposite Saurdice's grocery; they were going into the grocery; when they were going in, witness turned around and looked at them; witness then went home: is sure that two of the men went in; thinks Saurdice's grocery is on southwest corner of Lake and River streets.

Cross-Examination. Witness went down on the east side of River street until she got to Clinton House, and then turned directly west and crossed: the ladies with her went west on north side of Lake street, and witness went west on south side of Lake street; they were coming from the west on the south side of Lake street: they were by witness's house when witness first saw them: about 3 doors up the street: as witness left the gentlemen, two of them passed on to the platform and stepped into the grocery; Mr. Ross was one of them and Big Joe was the other: the other one passed to witness's right; witness passed between them as they parted; there was a light in the grocery; it shone perfectly bright; is positive they went in; saw them fairly out of sight; witness had just passed them when she looked around and saw who they were. Mr. Ross and the gentleman who went in were passing the window when witness looked at them; the light struck them; witness turned around again just as they went into the door. Ross was just shutting the door. The big man went into the grocery first. When witness first saw them they were going at rather a quick pace and Ross was between them.—The large man was next to the building; the other one was on the outside. Ross was dressed in black; dress coat and pants. The big man had on a thick overcoat buttoned up; the other man had on, witness thinks, a dark brown frock coat or sack coat: thinks he had no overcoat on; the big man was the lagest of the three; the other man was not quite as tall as Ross but was much stouter. Witness looked around again to see if it was sure Mr. Ross. After that didn't look around again; heard neither of them speak; then went directly home. When witness got home she looked back to see if any one was coming from church but saw no one any where; don't know where the man went who was on the outside. The evening was not very light or dark; it was pleasant; couldn't say whether there was a moon or not; it couldn't have been a very plain one; witness looked at her clock as soon as she got home before she took her bonnet off; thinks her clock was right. Mr. Ross and the smaller sized man had on black hat: couldn't say whether the other man had a hat on or not; didn't see the big man when turned around; he was in the bar-room; had the best sight of largest man when met them; didn't fancy that she knew either of them at the time except Ross: recognized him at the time from his weed; attention was not so attracted to him that she didn't pay any particular attention to the others; had known Ross by sight about three months; had been in the habit of seeing him pass once or twice every week before and after his wife died; had never been acquainted with him personally; never was in the store while he was with Mr. Wigler; had never met him in society, only knew him as a person passing in the street.—Witness has seen defendant once before, in the jail-yard; it was last May; had never been acquainted with him before; didn't know him by sight, but knew there was such a man; witness recognized him in jail-yard as the man witness saw, from his size and looks; cannot say that witness had distinct view of "Big Joe's" countenance; hadn't any distinct view of the small man's countenance; can swear that he was not a black man; the big man was a coarse, rough-looking man; looked like a man who drank considerably; cannot say any thing definitely as to the color of small man's face; thinks they had their hands in their pockets, except Ross; is sure that Radcliff had his hands in his pocket; can't say as to the big man; calls him Radcliff because they have told her it was his name since; met Radcliff face to face; hadn't as good a view of face then as of coat, as the light hadn't struck him; couldn't say whether the coat had a velvet collar on or not; couldn't say any thing more than that it was a common coat; it set middling snug; didn't notice shirt bosom; thinks the coats were both buttoned up; the pockets were on the side of of coat; generally notices color and make of clothes; has a peculiar disposition in that respect; had never before that time seen defendant and Ross together before that time; when witness heard of the murder the next morning she remembered having seen these men; spoke to Mrs. Raymond and her little boy about them; heard name of Ross when I was told of his murder; gave description of the persons; the same description as to-day, just as near as you can put your finger; Radcliff had on a dark brown coat when she saw him in jail yard; recollected saying to Sheriff that that was the same coat he had on when she saw him on Sunday evening; when she heard of Ross' death she clapped her hands and said she saw two men with him the night before; had said nothing about a dark brown coat before she saw prisoner in jail yard to her husband or child; when witness saw Radcliff in jail yard she concluded that he was the man chiefly from his size, dress and gait; saw him walk the length of three doors; witness says that the prisoner to all appearances is the man she saw on Sunday evening.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. Farman recalled by prosecution, testified as follows:—When witness saw Radcliffe and Ross in the Bridge Saloon, thinks when they were going out, Radcliffe asked Ross if he wouldn't take something else; don't remember as to whether, when they first drank, Ross invited Radcliffe, or Radcliffe invited Ross to drink: don't recollect telling Mr. Warren anything about their drinking in the Saloon, or about their liquor, or about their being drunk.

Cross Examination.—Was in the saloon when they came in; both went up to the bar; can't say who called for the liquor; couldn't say whether Bentley was in or not, but thinks he was; don't recollect of Ross drinking beer, and Radcliffe drinking brandy, and Mrs. Bentley giving it to him; thinks Mrs. Bentley had been in the country somewhere, and came back about that time; don't remember of Bentley's going away while they were there, or at all; thinks he stayed until they went away; don't know what became of horse and buggy Mrs. Bentley came home in; has no recollection of seeing any standing there when he went out; witness thinks he told Warren that they were walking arm-in-arm, and didn't walk any too straight; witness has seen Warren since this forenoon, and he said that witness didn't tell him that they were drunk in the saloon. (Mr. Arnold to witness, if, before God, he was not sure he had told the truth as to any thing he had sworn to day? witness said he didn't know what he was brought here for, if not to tell the truth; and if Mr. Arnold could specify any thing wherein he had not told the truth, he desired him to do so. This response elicited quite a sensation in Court.) Cannot remember any better as to time and place of talking to Mr. Ross as to the dress of Radcliffe or Ross, or as to any thing else witness testified to this morning.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.

SYNOPSIS.—When Consumption commences it work up on the lungs in its usual form, the first symptom is a cough. As the disease advances the cough becomes much more frequent, and is attended with the expectoration of matter, which is sometimes colorless, but at others, assumes a yellowish or greenish hue, and will often be found mixed with streaks of blood. After the cough has continued for a time the patient will experience some difficulty in breathing accompanied, perhaps, with a pain in the chest, and frequently in one or both sides. The patient will be subject to a hectic flush, and sensitive flushes of heat, frequent cold chills, and often with copious night sweats.

Those threatened with Consumption should bear in mind that "Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry" is the remedy, that has performed cures of Consumption that were thought almost miraculous—cures which have astonished the medical world, and brought the bloom of health to many a pallid cheek, and joy and gladness to many a despairing bosom.

A CURE FOR BRONCHITIS.

THOSE who suffer from Bronchial affections, connected with a weakened and deranged state of the stomach, especially if accompanied with acidity, which is not unfrequently the cause of the disease, are referred to the following extract from the St. Louis Herald.

OXYGENATED BITTERS.—Among our advertisements are those of the most approved patent medicines, one of which, the Oxygenated Bitters, we have tried. While under medical treatment by a physician of this city, for a distressing bronchitis of two years' standing, we were induced to try these Bitters, suspecting they were composed of the very thing which he had prescribed. The effect was immediate and permanent, and the cure soon completed. Wherever a bronchitis is connected with a deranged stomach, we have no doubt this medicine will give great relief. The patentee has the merit of rare honesty, when he tells us to stop taking the medicine, if not benefitted by two or three bottles

THE "NIGHTINGALE," on her trip from New Orleans to St. Louis, caught a severe cold. Barnum was much excited in view of the chance of losing $20,000 by her non-performance the first evening, that as soon as the party arrived at the Mound City, he started out in search of a remedy for the warbler. "Dr. Storm's Celebrated Scotch Cough-Candy," he read in flaming letters at the first drug store; "The very thing," says he; "TRAVELLED IN EUROPE." A package was purchased instanter, and—Jenny sang that night more sweetly than ever. feb16 1m

The American Cough Candy.

WE know of nothing in the annals of medicine which has achieved, within the same space of time, so just and general a reputation, as the above invaluable Cough Remedy. Testimonials of its wonderful effects in curing the most inveterate cold continue to flow in upon us. We are assured that where ever used it is superceding all other remedies. Dr. Storm's Celebrated Scotch Cough Candy has all the genius of virtue, probably never would have taken to herself a Golden bandit. She having taken that melancholy step, found her fate that first night, and having experienced only temporary relief from the Remedy last taken.

Why is the American Cough Candy like a Black Cloud? Because it goes ahead of Storms.

The following list of patterns is offered with the confidence that they will give satisfaction in every particular, viz:

THE ECONOMIST

DOUBLE OVEN COOKING STOVE,

(Which received the First Premium at the State Fair, lately held at Janesville,)

Possesses great advantages over every other stove, for plain flue and direct application of heat, being so arranged that one or both ovens can be used at pleasure. It will cook in half the time of any other stove now in use, and with half the fuel, not consuming over four cords of wood in one year.

The TRIUMPH, single oven, takes in long wood, is an excellent stove—one that has been well tested, and given general satisfaction.

The FREEMASON is different in its construction from any other made, in the arrangement of the fire back—acknowledged to be a great improvement.

The UNION PARLOR is adapted to either wood or coal, being decidedly the neatest arrangement ever offered to the public, having all the convenience of the stove contained with the bearings of the open grate. It is beautifully ornamental, highly fashioned, and perfect in every respect—the entire front above and below the grate being opened or closed with three doors, and so arranged that when open they are completely out of sight. It is equally adapted to others as well as parlors.

The HARVEST is the best coal stove ever got up as a matter of heat.

In cases purchasing their stoves of us, in the event of any of the plate getting broke, can at all times be supplied with extra ones, thus superceding the necessity of throwing away stoves, which many are daily compelled to do in buying Eastern ware.

Those who are in want of an articles in our line, will find it to their advantage to give us a call, before purchasing elsewhere, as we are confident that we can give satisfaction in all cases. City references given, where our stoves can be seen in operation. Stoves delivered and set up in any part of the city, free of charge. All orders promptly attended to.

STATE FAIR.

CRANE'S PATENT SOAP took the FIRST PREMIUM at the STATE FAIR at Janesville also at the State Fair of the State of New York, and at the Great Fair of the American Institute. On each and every occasion it took the highest premium. Why? Because it is the BEST SOAP IN USE. If any are still skeptical, let them read the following—the names to which might be indefinitely extended, and then try it for themselves, and if it don't succeed, they don't follow the directions:—

"We have used CRANE'S PATENT SOAP in our families for the past eighteen months, and pronounce it FULLY equal to its recommendations. We do not discover that it injures clothing in the least. It is the cheapest soap in use. We should not willingly do without it.
